WELLING NEWS

by Mrs. E. K. Bullock

Friends of Mrs. A. M. Wildo (Grandma) will be sorry to hear she is in Galt hospital with bronchitis.

A party for all Primary officers, teachers and partners was held at the church last Thursday evening. A nice social time was enjoyed and lunch consisted of all the ice cream and strawberries one could eat.

The High School gave a closing dance Friday night. A large crowd was present with guests from Raymond and Magrath. They danced to the music of Ted's Melody Men of Magrath.

The Welling Ball Team have bought new uniforms. They are grey trimmed with green.

Wedding Bells

Leavitt-Dahl

June 27, at the home of C. Frank Steele, the wedding took place of Joyce, eldest daughter of Mrs. Emma Dahl and the late Paul Dahl, and Bert K., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Leavitt, all of Raymond. The bride was lovely in a white street length dress of Jersey and corsage of red roses, and was attended by Miss Helga Andersson. Mr. Rulon Dahl supported the groom.

Those in attendance included Mrs. Emma Dahl, Mr. and Mrs. Rulon Dahl, Mrs. F. W. Leavitt, Mrs. Alma Evans, Maxine Dahl, Janet Heninger, Hazel Baker Keely.

After the ceremony the party returned to the Marquis hotel for the wedding dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt will live in Lethbridge until fall when the groom will attend University of Alberta.

Bank of Montreal's New Offices To Be Officially Opened July 5th

The Bank of Montreal's new building on Broadway, which has been under construction for some months now, is being officially opened on July 5th, with C. G. Dunning, Superintendent of the bank's Alberta branches, officiating.

Of solid brick on reinforced concrete, the building, with its acoustical ceiling and marble floor, is one of the finest in the town.

The latest type lighting fixtures have been installed, and the interior of the office, with low counter lines and quarter cut white oak fittings, presents a pleasing modern appearance.

A notable feature of the construction of the building is the arrangement of the front windows of the office which extend almost full height of the structure, giving a bright, airy atmosphere to the interior.

A. C. King, manager of the bank, said he thought the new building a addition to the town and promised his customers an even more efficient and satisfactory service now that the new quarters were ready.

Notice — The Library will be closed for the first two weeks of July.

Mrs. Jessie Atwood Passes At Cranbrook

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Jessie Atwood, beloved wife of Nephil L. Atwood, old time residents of Raymond, were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in Cranbrook, B.C., Bishop L. L. Palmer officiating.

The opening song was "Oh My Father" with the opening prayer being given by Marlon Agroyd of Magrath. Second song was "Sometime We'll Understand".

Bishop L. L. Palmer was the first speaker and spoke of the pre-existence, life after death and the resurrection. Following Bishop Palmer, Mary Baker sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere".

Second speaker was Jesse Gibb of Hillspring who spoke of his association with the Atwood family while on his mission and of the sterling qualities of the deceased.

"In the Garden", a solo, was rendered by Mrs. Jesse Gibb of Hillspring. Jas. E. Meeks spoke of the family and his association with them social and business, during the past 45 years. He spoke of his acquaintance with the deceased from her girlhood. A chorus sang "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go". Concluding speaker was E. K. Hauks, president of the Spokane District of the N. W. Mission, who spoke of the purpose of life and the resurrection.

Closing song was "Abide With Me" and the benediction was offered by John Powelson. Interment was made in the Cranbrook Cemetery with the grave being dedicated by E.K. Hauks.

The large congregation and beautiful and profuse floral tributes paid deep tribute to the respect and esteem of the family in the Cranbrook district.

Mrs. Curtis West is at present visiting with her daughters, Mrs. Gen. and Mrs. John Pickell, in Portland, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dahl are the parents of a baby girl, born Tuesday.

Miss Marie Nilsson of Lethbridge is home for a few days.

Wedding Bells

Fairbanks - Redd

Wednesday, June 19th, at the Canadian Temple, the marriage was solemnized, of Norma, youngest daughter of Paul H. Redd and the late Mrs. Redd to Harold Junior Fairbanks, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fairbanks, all of Raymond. Pres. J. J. Wood performed the ceremony in the presence of many friends and relatives.

Those present from Raymond included Paul Redd and daughters, Mrs. Alma Mendenhall, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fairbanks and Mrs. Anne Fairbanks. Mrs. Hazel Gibb of Cardston, another sister of the bride also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks are spending a honeymoon in Waterton and Glacier and will make their home in Calgary.

What is Miladi's hat, Lilly Dache, who knows, says "A hat is the expression of a woman's soul. It is something she wears on her head but it belongs to her heart. It is her challenge to the world. She does not wear it to keep warm, or to provide shade from the sun, though it may do these things too. She wears it to please a husband or a sweetheart, or to get out. She wears it to make other women jealous, sometimes, and sometimes she wears it to express her personality. The finishing touch that makes her look beautiful and smart. I sure of her self, if it is the right hat."

Virginia Sorenson, author of "On This Star" was born in Provo, Utah in the year 1912. Much of her adult life has been spent in University towns of the west and the midwest, her husband being a faculty member. She studied at the University of Missouri also at Leland Stanford. She has lived in California, Michigan, Denver, and Indiana. She writes for the Saturday Review of Literature, the Washington Post, Salt Lake Tribune, Women's Day and the New York Herald Tribune. Her first novel, "A Little Lower Than the Angels," was also a Norman story, as is her new one.

For three days last week a peaceful assembly settled upon the downtown main street the citizen carried on their conversations in whispers. A visitor to our town would have been amazed, however, at the apparent nervous affliction suffered by so many of our leading males. In the middle of a sentence or even of a word, ones head would be seen to jerk violently, giving the speaker the appearance of watching for someone behind him. Well, perhaps it is a good thing that peace has gone again and all our nerves are back to normal. Yes, peace reigned in Raymond for three days. Geo Ralph lost his voice.

Grant Smith, son of Clarence Smith has just returned from China and has received his discharge.

Civilian Aviation

THE RECENT DECISION of the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization, usually referred to as PICAQ, to make its permanent headquarters in the city of Montreal was welcomed in all parts of Canada. PICAQ is considered to be one of the most important of the international organizations and it is a tribute to Canada that aviation leaders from the twenty-seven member states represented should select this country for the site of its permanent headquarters. On air maps showing the northern hemisphere Canada appears to be in the centre, rather than at the top of the world, and many important air routes lie across Canadian skies. As a country which will undoubtedly play a leading part in the future development of aviation, Canada has been deeply interested in the organization of PICAQ, whose work is concerned with establishing an international air technical code and other related matters.

Many Reasons For Concern

In addition to her geographic position, Canada has many other reasons for being deeply interested in the future of commercial aviation. During the war many thousands of Canadians were trained in the production, maintenance and operation of aircraft, and large numbers of these skilled workers are now available for civilian employment. Figures show that more than 120,000 men and women have been employed in the production of aircraft here, while 250,000 men entered the Royal Canadian Air Force for training, 73,000 graduating as air crew. During the war, Canada also developed many fine airports. All the bases established for training or defense purposes are not of practical value for commercial uses, but some others have been leased by the government to municipalities and other bodies for a nominal sum, and will be used for civilian flying. It is estimated that there are some 280 land airports in Canada.

Rapid Advances During The War

As was the case in many fields, aviation made very rapid advances during the war. New international air routes were mapped out, new types of planes were developed and much equipment and many technical devices were invented. All these things have contributed to the making of a new and brilliant chapter in aviation history, but they have also raised many problems in regard to civilian international air travel. PICAQ was organized to deal with these problems and to establish accord among the nations in matters pertaining to civil aviation. The organization faces a difficult and exacting task but if it succeeds it will be an important instrument for preserving world peace. Canada has given leadership in forming this body, and the fact that the permanent headquarters will now be located here adds to the general interest in the success of its work.

But British Casualties Only Third Of First Great War

A total of 357,116 Britons were killed in the Second Great War, official figures disclosed, 60,595 were civilians, 30,248 were in the merchant navy and fishing fleets, 1,206 were in the Home Guard and 624 in the Women's Auxiliary Services. Those killed in the services were: Navy 50,758. Army 144,079. Royal Air Force 69,606.

Of the civilians who died from enemy action, 26,923 were men, 25,399 women and 7,736 children under 16.

There also were 537 unidentified bodies.

The figures cover the full fighting period from Sept. 3 1939, to Aug. 14, 1945.

The number killed was approximately about one-third of that in the First Great War.

Looking To The Future

British Isles In The Centre Of A Great Oceanic Empire

More than 45 million people inhabit these islands, says the London Sunday Chronicle. How can so many, in so small an area, maintain a standard of living which, if not the highest, is nearly the highest in the world? The answer is clear. It is because these islands are the centre of a great oceanic Empire. That is why the problems of Empire—India, Egypt, Malaya, Palestine—cannot be dismissed by the ordinary citizen as distant and political, no concern of his. In very truth they affect every one of us in our daily life, in what we eat, in how we live. For the whole economic, financial, and industrial structure of this country is built on the foundation of Empire. Sever the Imperial connection and the gloomy prophecies of American observers, who foresee in this country a reduced standard of living and a population of no more than 20 millions or so, may become true.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

NATIONS
A nation is the unity of a people.—Coleridge.

A State to prosper, must be built on foundations of a moral character; and this character is the principal element of its strength and the only guaranty of its permanence and prosperity.—Jabez Curry.

The commandments of God are the bread of life for the nations.—Roswell D. Hitchcock.

God is Father, Infinite, and this great truth, when understood in its divine metaphysics, will establish the brotherhood of man, end wars, and demonstrate "on earth peace, good will toward men."—Mary Baker Eddy.

The true grandeur of nations is in those qualities which constitute the true greatness of the individual.—Charles Sumner.

Until nations are generous they will never be wise; true policy is generous policy; all bitterness, selfishness, etc., may gain small ends, but lose great ones.—Washington Irving.

The United Nations flag, also known as the four freedoms flag, consists of four vertical red bars on a white field. It has not been officially adopted.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Where do we turn in spare ration coupons or meat tokens? I have been told if we turn in unused valid ration coupons, rationed food equal to the value of coupons, will be forwarded overseas to starving people.

A.—The local ration board in your community will accept any spare ration coupons you may have. Your local ration board can also give you information about groups who will be collecting ration coupons in your neighbourhood. Every group must carry an official card from the Ration Administration and you are to ask to see this card before handing over your coupons or tokens.

Q.—We will be hiring extra help from time to time on our farm this summer. How many meals must I serve before I am entitled to extra coupons?

A.—Extra ration coupons are only issued for a total of twelve meals or over. If extra help is required for two weeks or more, the ration book of the person employed must be given to you.

Q.—I heard on the radio that meat coupons M-29 to M-39 and butter coupons R-1 to R-9 will become invalid for the purchase of these commodities after June 30. Does this mean that the "Beaver" coupons, issued to members of the armed forces and other temporary ration card holders, will also be declared invalid?

A.—"Beaver" coupons will not be affected by the radio announcement, which you heard. These "Beaver" coupons, and all sugar coupons, will remain valid until further notice.

Q.—I am planning on a visit to the United States. I will be staying with friends of mine and would like to know if I will be entitled to sugar ration coupons when I enter the States.

A.—If you apply at any local branch of the Office of the Price Administration in the United States, you will be allowed sugar ration points. You are entitled to ration points if you are visiting for over two weeks in the States.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

SAFETY MEASURE

According to the Scientific American, a new radio distance indicator for trains which can detect the approach of any other train up to eight miles is now being put into use by the Rock Island R.R. to eliminate danger of accidents. These "radio" units are installed both in front and in the rear of trains; they send out signals in code, and automatically convert signals received into distance, thus immediately warning the engineer of any danger.

Judge Advises Applicants For Citizenship To Read Newspaper

"To keep properly posted about your new country I can give you no better advice than to read your newspaper. It is a complete fund of knowledge of news and events both here and abroad."

These are the words of Judge J. H. McDonald, of Sault Ste. Marie, addressed to nine aspirants for Canadian citizenship, in his court recently. His advice was given special point when one of the applicants could not even name the Canadian Prime Minister, the Premier of Ontario—or even the mayor of Sault Ste. Marie.

Ghost Rocket

Was Seen To Pass Over Finland At High Altitude

Witnesses said they had seen a light-emitting "ghost rocket" pass over Helsinki, the Finnish capital, in a southwesterly direction. The rocket, the observers said, was flying at an altitude of 900 to 1200 feet and was followed by a smoke trail. It was the first one observed in Finland, although several have been reported lately crossing southern Sweden and Denmark in approximately the same direction.

More Recognition

Should Be Given To Authors And Composers In Canada

More scope and better rewards for Canadian authors and composers were advocated by Leslie A. Boosey, leading English music publisher, who attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Authors' and Publishers' Association in Toronto.

"Canadians tend to underestimate the value of their authors and publishers and limit rewards to individuals and societies," said Mr. Boosey, president of the International Confederation of Authors' and Composers' Society.

Radio Speeches

Question Is As To Whether A Half-Hour Speech Is Too Long

In connection with political speeches on the radio, the question has arisen as to whether a half-hour political speech isn't too long. That, it seems to us, depends on the speaker. A half-hour radio speech by Mr. Churchill might seem to many too short; a quarter-hour speech by an inferior speaker might seem to many too long. We ourselves have heard radio speakers and thought after five minutes they were too long.

We forget who it was that said of Bacon that when he was speaking "men feared he might make an end." The trouble with most of our radio speakers, and some of our platform speakers, too, is that they make their hearers fear they will never make an end. A further trouble with some of our radio speakers is that they make no attempt to find out what radio speaking is about. They don't seem to understand that when they are speaking on the radio they are speaking to people in their homes, and that, given the privilege of entering such homes, they should do so with grace and good manners.—Ottawa Journal.

SMILE AWHILE

Wife: "Are all men as stupid as you are?"

Husband: "No, dear, look at all the bachelors there are."

Mother: "I told you just now to stop that noise!"

John: "I know, but this isn't the same noise. I was playing the drum then, but I'm blowing my whistle now!"

"Married men make the best commercial travellers," asserts a business magnate. No doubt because they are so used in taking orders.

"Hello, old man, I haven't seen you for some time."

"I've been in bed for seven weeks."

"That's too bad. Fin, I suppose?"

"Yes and crashed."

Visitor: "My, you're a bright little girl. How do you know it's the first of the month?"

Child: "Cause all of daddy's letters have front windows in them."

Teacher: "Do you know why the little chickens come out of the eggs, Tommy?"

Tommy: "They know they'd get cooked if they stayed inside."

"I believe," said the bride, "in a perfect understanding between a man and wife. I intend to make my husband understand that he no longer can do whatever he pleases."

Cavalry Recruit: "I don't like the look of the horse's head, sir." Sergeant: "Oh, don't worry. You'll soon get over that!"

Husband: "Anything nice for tea tonight, dear?"

Wife: "Oh, yes, sponge cake. I sponged the eggs from Mrs. Smith, the flour from Mrs. Jones and the milk from Mrs. Duncan."

"How did your wife like the diamond ring you gave her for her birthday?"

"Delighted. She was awfully nice for a couple of days. But she's herself again now."

"George looks worried today. What's wrong with him?"

"Oh, he's been contesting his wife's will."

"His wife? I didn't know she was dead."

"She isn't."

Teacher: "There's only one truthful boy in this class."

Smith (in an undertone), "That's me."

Teacher: "Did you speak, Smith?"

Smith: "No, sir."

Thousands-Year-Old Custom Observed Recently In English Village

ST. BRIAVELS, England.—Bread is scarce and cheese is rationed in Britain, but hundreds had both for the asking at a 1,000-year-old ceremony at this Gloucestershire hamlet.

Fifty pounds of bread and cheese in small cubes were thrown from a wall to townspeople and visitors: The Whitsunday custom commemorates the right of villagers to take wood from a section of the Forest of Dean.

Just how the bread and cheese is linked with the wood, no one remembers. W. G. Cheswick's family paid for the refreshments. The Food Ministry did not ask for ration coupons.

Orphan Village

To Be Built In Switzerland To Shelter Children From Devastated Europe

Foundations of a village to shelter 350 orphans from various devastated European countries were laid recently on an eleven acre tract near Trogen, in the mountainous eastern part of Switzerland.

The first 15 dwellings will be built in Swiss farm style, surrounded by orchards and pastures. Three to five houses will be grouped to form a community where the children will be instructed by Swiss and foreign teachers.

The children's village was named Pestalozzi, after the famous Swiss educator who died in 1827.

The insecticide now known as DDT was first compounded in 1874, but its practical value was not determined until 1939.

SCHOOL CHILDREN IN WARSAW APPRECIATE CANADIAN AID

A letter signed by 42 children attending school in Warsaw, written in Polish, sending greetings to the children of Canada and expressing thanks for the gifts of clothing that were sent to them from the Dominion by the Imperial Daughters of the Empire in Canada, has been forwarded by the Polish Democratic Association to National headquarters of the Clothing Collection campaign, as indicative of the feelings that are aroused in the recipients by such donations.

"We the children of public school in Warsaw, thank you most heartily for sweaters and woolen caps that were sent to us at the same time they warmed our hearts," reads the translation of this letter.

"Our fatherland is now a land of graves and ruins. We live in the most tragic and the most ruined city of Europe. For almost six years we were very unhappy. We were not allowed to love our country. Our fathers and mothers were murdered in the camps executed on the streets or burned in the gas chambers because they loved their country. Many of our children were killed or perished. We have seen the blood run in streams and other awful things. Did the children of beautiful Canada know all this?

"But in spite of the suffering we have not lost courage. Just as soon as the enemy was driven out of our land we have gone to work. We have unfaltering hope that we shall rebuild our country."

"Sweaters and caps sent to us from Canada bring more than protection from the cold. During geography lesson we look with love to the map of Canada. And we remember that over there, far beyond the seas, lives a noble nation which understands our plight. We send our best wishes to the noble organization and our greetings to the children of Canada. Public schools No. 33 and 186, 123 Czerniakowska Ulica, Warsaw."

In forwarding this letter to the Canadian Allied Relief which is sponsoring the second clothing drive, W. Dutkiewicz, general secretary of the Polish Democratic Association states:

"While in Poland I saw evidence of Canadian aid in every town, city and village. Used clothing from Canada is being distributed to the needy all over the country. I want to assure you that to me it was the greatest thing I saw on my visit, for Canada has done a great work of relief in Poland and the Polish people are most grateful—Canada is held in very high esteem by the people of Poland."

WHY SHEEP GET ITCHY

Most sheep in Canada, as in other parts of the world, get itchy at some time or other. Then they are in discomfort and rub, scrape, and scratch in an attempt to get rid of the cause. In western Canada the two main causes are the sheep ked (usually called the sheep tick) and the sage tick.

The sage tick is seasonal in its attack on sheep, starting to infest sheep about the middle of March and continuing on till about July. The period of infestation varies with seasonal conditions and the severity of infestation also varies considerably from year to year. Unfortunately no practical methods of control have been developed and until this is done the sheep will have to continue to suffer.

The sheep ked (sheep tick) infests sheep throughout the year and unless control measures are used can affect seriously the health of the sheep. Fortunately satisfactory control has been developed on a practical basis. The common method of controlling the sheep ked is by dipping the sheep at least once a year. Several satisfactory commercial dipping solutions are available and if used properly will give good results.

Some variation occurs in the time of dipping. Some producers favor dipping shortly after shearing while others prefer to wait until some wool has grown after shearing. If sheep are infested heavily with keds dipping should take place soon after shearing. In fact, in cases of heavy infestation the sheep should be dipped twice at an interval of about two weeks. When dipping is practised shortly after shearing less dip is required than when dipping takes place later in the season.

Dipping usually is not a pleasant job for either man or beast and often leads to injury of some of the sheep. It occurred to members of the Dominion Experimental Station Staff that some other method would be more desirable and during the last two seasons a system of applying the dipping solution with a powder sprayer has been under test. While all the kinks haven't been taken out of the method yet it does have real possibilities and you will hear more about it as time goes by.

Rev. and Mrs. H. Marston Leave for Three Hills

On Tuesday evening, June 18, a farewell party was held in the Raymond United Church in honor of Rev. and Mrs. H. Marston. A short program was enjoyed, consisting of songs by the Girl's Choir, readings by Mrs. Minion, Mrs. E. Loqua, Joy Reher and Margery Minion; vocal solos by Mr. T. K. Roberts, Peggy Wilde and Gloria Veen; a piano solo by Elaine King and a number by the Male trio, consisting of Mr. Roberts, Mr. King and Mr. Marston. Mrs. F. Hall very capably acted as mistress of ceremonies for the evening, and at the conclusion of the program presented Rev. and Mrs. Marston with a purse of quiet flowers on behalf of the congregation here. Rev. Marston, representing the Japanese people also spoke words of appreciation and made a presentation. Both Mr. and Mrs. Marston expressed their thanks. After lunch was served everyone enjoyed singing Auld Lang Syne and Bless Be The Tie That Binds.

Rev. and Mrs. Marston and their three boys will be leaving soon to take up residence in Three Hills. Rev. Marston having accepted a call from the United Church there.

Ronnie Christensen has returned to Ogden Utah to continue with the work he left when he joined the services.

Miss Lavan Graham has returned from Provo where she has been attending school.

NEXT FRIDAY . . .

at our new office
on Broadway Ave.

we'd like you to drop in and look over our new premises . . .

We're pleased to announce that Raymond's new bank building is now completed and is being officially opened next Friday, July 5th.

It is designed for better service, with roomy customers' space and long counter line, and it is our hope that, with these added conveniences, you'll find greater satisfaction in conducting your banking business at the B of M. Further, our staff will be enabled to serve you with greater speed and efficiency and with more comfort to themselves.

Whether you have an account with us or not, we hope you will attend the opening next Friday. We'll be moving in on the following day, ready to do business Monday morning, July 8th.

Here, in Raymond, as in hundreds of towns and cities, large and small, across the Dominion, our aim is to provide the same kind of friendly, helpful banking service we have been giving the Canadian people for the past 128 years.

Fish From The Sky

Scientist Claims The Fish Really Fall With Rain

The question is whether fish fall from the sky with rain.

Those who think so, sit over there with Dr. E. W. Gudger of the American Museum of Natural History. Take your own bushel baskets.

The rest may join Prof. Bergen Evans of Northwestern University's English department, who contends all this talk about it raining fish is one of "the most delightful . . . myths."

It's no myth at all, Gudger said indignantly in the current issue of Science, publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Gudger has made perhaps the most exhaustive studies ever made of rainfalls speckled with fish—live ones, dead ones, rotten ones and even partly eaten ones. There have been at least 78 different rains of fish in the last 2,350 years—17 of them in the United States, he said.

Although he's never personally witnessed a piscatorial shower, he is convinced that reports, some of them from men of science, are accurate.

Gudger got mad and pounded out a letter to science after Evans had taken the trouble in the April issue of the Atlantic Monthly to throw cold water on Gudger's writings about fish storms.

Take the case of the fish fall in India in 1830, an incident which surprised the natives no end and subsequently became the basis of Gudger's first article on the subject.

Evans chortled: "Some of Dr. Gudger's more reliable witnesses make the interesting point that the fish descended on them were headless, rotten and partly eaten."

Birds, Evans suggested, not a rain of fishes.

Evans forgot, Gudger countered, that the same two reliable witnesses reported that some of the fish which flopped onto their turbans were fresh; a few witnesses even took some home.

Gudger explained that whirlwinds, waterspouts and perhaps strong typhoons and monsoon winds suck up fish from water and then plunk them onto the countryside.

Gudger did not mention the mysterious clam which once fell onto a man's head in Yuma, Ariz., 60 miles from salt water. It took the good people of Yuma two days to come up with the most plausible explanation: the clam was heaved from a garbage dump a few yards away.

Flying Hotel Luxury

Britain Building New Planes For Service To Far East

Nylon, used for the first time in aircraft furnishing, is to cover the convertible seat-bunks of Britain's new Short Solvent flying boats, 12 of which are being built for British Overseas Airways' Far East routes.

Thi Solvent will be the last word in "Flying Hotel" luxury. Its passengers will be able to sleep in comfortable bunks, look out at the scene below from a promenade and have drinks at a bar while flying at nearly 200 miles per hour. There are electric razor-plugs in the men's dressing room.

The women's dressing tables are to be made of plastoply, an immensely strong but light plastic used in aircraft for the first time.

What Bankers Sell

The Success Of Any Bank Lies In The Service It Gives

R. J. Deachman, Ottawa publicist, comments on a recent banker's advertisement which he picked up. The wording of this ad shows a serious effort to inform business men and others of the real functions of the bank, the reciprocity between bank and customer in advantage and profit.

It was not ever thus in the banking world, but things have changed notably for the better in the past 20 years at least. This advertisement reads:

"When the housewife calls at the grocery store and orders a supply of provisions, she is not asking a favor—she is buying goods for which she will pay on delivery—purely a matter of business."

"So with your bank. It is a business proposition just as much as the grocery store."

"The grocer deals in groceries—the banker deals in credit. And as the making of loans is one of the principal ways by which his bank derives its revenue, he is an anxious to sell his groceries. And, like the grocer, the banker naturally wants to know that he is going to be paid for his goods—that his loans will be met when they fall due. That, too, is only good business."

"When you have occasion to ask for a loan, look at it this way. Come to the Bank, not feeling that you have to ask a favor, but to offer the manager a sound business proposition which will be of profit both to you and to his institution."

The success of any chartered bank in Canada today, and all are successful as well as sound, lies in the service rendered. It is pointed out that the banks of Canada have more millions of money on deposit now than at any time in history, despite the huge subscriptions to war loans.

Why is it so? Because over the long years Canadian banks have fortified themselves in the confidence of the public, and by public is meant, tens of thousands of foreign born, whose habits of thrift and safety in their own lands induced them to hoard and hide what they accumulated. If no public confidence existed in the banking system, it would be a nullity in national service, and a field day for loan sharks. Banks which loan money out for business, industry and sound usage first have to get that money from the earnings of the people.—St. Catharines Standard.

Saved By Disguise

The Leader Of Warsaw Uprising Succeeded In Fooling Nazis

Gen. Bor, leader of the Warsaw uprising, told recently of the search made for him by the Nazis after his capture. The general was a cavalry officer before the war. He participated in the 1936 Olympics, where he was photographed with Hitler. He has a cousin, also a cavalry officer, who also participated in the 1936 Olympics and was photographed with Hitler. When the Warsaw revolt failed, and the men were taken prisoners, Bor reassumed the guise of a meek, scholarly teacher, and was treated as an ordinary prisoner. His cousin was sent to a concentration camp because the Nazis thought he was Gen. Bor.

A RESTFUL VACATION

Suggestions On How To Enjoy It On Motor Trip

The automobile has given us a marvellous new field in the realm of vacations. The pity is that we do not yet seem to have found out the best way to take advantage of it.

There seems to be something about an automobile that compels a man to be energetic and restless. The average family sets forth on a vacation tour dedicated to the proposition that they must cover at least three hundred miles a day. If for no other reason than to prove that they and their car can do it, and there is no surer way to waste a vacation than this.

The wise ones, on the other hand, refuse to look at mileage marks. Often they will not even carry maps. Their aim is not to cover as much ground as possible, but to loaf along as restfully as possible. They are the ones whose vacations really do them some good.

For the automobile, while it will oblige the energetic with great bursts of speed, is also a fine thing for the loafer. Once you catch on to the trick of it, you can make vacation touring the most restful recreation imaginable. If you are content to idle along, caring not in the least whether you make Niagara that night or whether you have to stop at Grimsby, half way to the Falls, willing to dawdle down the highway, letting any other driver speed past you if he wants to—then the joys of motoring are really yours.

For then you can be, not a restless wanderer, but a contented wanderer. There is a difference. The restless one consumes his own energy. The contented one stores it up. The restless one passes up charming towns and beautiful lakes and valleys in order to get to wherever it is that he is bound; the contented one stops when he comes to a place he likes, turns down any road that appeals to him, never frets himself about the distance he has gone or the distance that still lies before him.

If you have never tried that kind of motoring, this summer would be a fine time to give it a whirl. Leave your map at home, and set out without any destination at all. Make only one resolution—that you will not, under any circumstances, hurry. Drive just for the fun of it and not to get somewhere. You will find motoring to be a lot more enjoyable than you ever dreamed it could be.—Chatham News.

A Coined Word

Pakistani Derived From Initial Letters Of Four Indian States

To the average Canadian who has been following the constitutional arguments in India, the word Pakistani, that independent state sought by the Moslem group under the proposed system of home rule, has been the cause of much conjecture. Questions are asked as to whether it is a native word, or whether it is an actual area.

In reality it is a coined word aimed at describing the four states which the Moslems seek to incorporate into their section of India. It is derived from the initial letters of the four states: P. Punjab; A. Afghan; K. Kashmir; S. Sind; with the final syllable Stan, meaning state. The I is thrown in as good measure to make the word reasonably pronounceable.—Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Republic Preferred

Polley Of Italy's King Did Not Suit The People

When the Italian people voted King Umberto off the throne which he has occupied for less than a month, they were not merely registering a preference for a republic over a monarchy. They were returning a verdict and passing a sentence on the House of Savoy. This was proved by the curt manner in which the government announced that the ousted king would leave Italy.

As long as Umberto's father, former King Victor Emmanuel III, took as a model the democratic monarchies of Western Europe—Britain, Holland, the Scandinavian countries, etc.—all went well with the House of Savoy. From the moment when Little Victor attached himself to the coat-tails of the blackguardly dictator, Benito Mussolini, the House of Savoy was doomed.

As a matter of fact, Mussolini abolished the House of Savoy as authentic royalty.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

Something New

United States Navy To Have A Battleship Without Guns

A battleship without guns will be something new in the navies of the world. But the U.S. Navy now plans to complete the Kentucky, originally designed as one of the huge Iowa, Missouri class, without its 16-inch guns.

The battleship has always been regarded primarily as a gun platform, but the Kentucky will be an experimental rocket platform, according to present plans. It also may make some use of atomic weapons, and for that reason its completion is being delayed until after the Bikini blast.—Chicago Daily News.

BRITAIN'S HEALTH PLAN

A first-hand account of some details of Britain's new Health Service Bill, the provisions of which will place the health of the entire population in the hands of the state, were disclosed by Sir Wilson Jameson, Great Britain's chief medical officer of health, at well-attended public meetings in Toronto and Montreal, both sponsored by the Health League in co-operation with the Canadian Public Health Association.

Sir Wilson said the Bill provides the administrative structure of a comprehensive health service—hospital, specialist, general practitioner, dentist and all nursing care and preventive measures—for every man, woman and child in the country without payment of any fee at the time of need.

The main administrative problem would be the linking up of the various parts of the machine. He said the Bill provides the bare bones of the structure, with the "flesh and blood" having to be provided by people of "good will and understanding."

"All a government can do is to provide the opportunity," Sir Wilson said. "It is for all concerned to seize it and develop it in the public interest."

The service is estimated to cost more than $150,000,000 at the outset, with the money provided mainly by the Exchequer, assisted by a payment of $32,000,000 from the National Insurance Fund, and partly from local rates with the help of Exchequer grants.

The Bill provides that the Minister of Health shall assume direct responsibility for hospital and specialist services but he will entrust the actual administration to new regional and local bodies. The general practitioner, dental and pharmacist services will be administered by new local executive councils, nominated one-half by the local professional bodies, and the other half by the major health authorities and the Minister himself.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Canada Must Seek Markets To Increase Trade

EDMONTON.—Trade Minister MacKinnon said Canada faced a challenge to broaden and diversify her trade and seek new markets to supplement the two traditional and essential outlets — Britain and the United States — for Canadian goods.

Delivering an address before the national convention of the Canadian junior chamber of commerce, he added that if Canada could not find markets for her goods "at satisfactory prices we will at once feel the and consequences here in Canada."

Reviewing the markets open to the Dominion, he said substantial progress had been made during the war in increasing trade with South America and expressed belief a "very large market" could be developed in those countries, which had expressed their "keenest desire" to increase their trading relations with Canada.

"It is the opinion of my officials in the department of trade and commerce," he added, "that we can expect the greatest expansion in our trade in Latin America that we have ever known—far greater than what we enjoyed during the war when we increased our exports by 70 per cent. and our imports of essential raw materials by 400 per cent."

He expressed belief Canada had failed to give the Pacific market all the attention it deserved and said that with Japan defeated Canada now had a "great opportunity to increase our trade with the Orient on a mutual and profitable basis if we address ourselves to this task with vigor and efficiency."

He noted that in 1939 Canadian exports to Australia, New Zealand, China, India and Japan formed less than 10 per cent. of Canada's total export trade and said this illustrated how great an increase could be obtained in those markets.

Trade with India had increased during the war and should now be built up as the resources of the two countries were complementary rather than competitive. The Dominion also could enjoy a substantial volume of trade with China if she increased her attention in that "great potential market."

MANITOBA LEADS

Had Most Farmers Assessed With Income Tax Last Fiscal Year

OTTAWA.—Manitoba farmers led the farmers of all Canada in numbers assessed with income tax in the fiscal year, 1944-45, according to a reply in the House to a question put by G. H. Castleden (C.C.F., Yorkton).

A total number of Manitoba farmers assessed that year with income tax was 5,562, next came Ontario with an even 4,000, Saskatchewan third with 3,465, Alberta fourth with 1,316 and British Columbia fifth with 911.

Compared with those numbers, the farmers assessed for income tax in the remainder of the provinces were negligible, as follows:

Quebec 251, Nova Scotia 83, Prince Edward Island 82, and New Brunswick 44.

STRIKE IN CAIRO

King Farouk Able To End Dispute With Telegraph Workers

CAIRO.—A strike of 1,000 Egyptian telegraph workers, which had paralyzed the country's internal telegraph system for 48 hours, ended after King Farouk responded to the workers' appeal for royal protection. Strong forces of police surrounded Cairo's telegraph administration headquarters and prevented food and water from reaching the strikers, who had barricaded themselves in.

Some of the strikers, however, managed to reach the royal palace, and appealed to the king for protection.

At King Farouk's request food was allowed to enter the building, and an official promise was given to the strikers that the requests for better working conditions would be met.

The officer said the island would never again be fit for human habitation. The island is about 130 acres and had 4,000 inhabitants before the war.

Urge Greater Use Of Hudson Bay Route

SASKATOON.—Secretary Frank Ellison of the Hudson Bay Route Association said that the interprovincial committee on the route should reconvene to urge use of Churchill for storage and shipping of this year's wheat crop. He said he had written to the two association representatives on the committee suggesting a meeting be called soon.

"We are not satisfied with the attitude of the Canadian wheat board in indicating that no more wheat from this year's crop will be consigned to Churchill."

The Daigleish Steamship lines of Britain were prepared to supply the ships necessary to operate the port all summer, Mr. Ellison said. The Canadian merchant marine should also be able to provide ships.

He had information indicating that rural telephone companies in Saskatchewan required several carloads of telephone wire that could be imported via the Hudson Bay route. The Davidson, Sask., co-operative store had ordered two carloads of linoleum from Britain and had specified that it be shipped by the Hudson Bay, he said.

"There is plenty of other business available."

Prairie Land Being Depleted Of Its Fertility

WINNIPEG.—F. C. Bentley of the University of Saskatchewan soils department told the western Canadian society of agronomy convention that there is a possibility of sterile prairie land, with a resulting low nutritional value in agricultural products.

"The prairie provinces are depicting the fertility of their soils at an alarming rate. This is particularly true of phosphorus, the element being most seriously depleted by grain farming. As time goes on, the need for phosphate fertilization will increase."

Mr. Bentley said that because of the steady drain on the mineral content of western soil, the nutritional value of feeds and food is decreasing. Fertilizer was the answer to heavier yields and he said he would like to see fertilizer consumption in the prairie provinces up to 200,000 tons by 1955.

Some physiologic races which make up rusts are capable of attacking varieties of cereal crops which were previously resistant, said Dr. T. Johnson of the Dominion laboratory of plant pathology, Winnipeg.

Races of oat stem rust had now become so prevalent that such varieties as Vanguard and Ajax couldn't be considered resistant any longer. A race of wheat stem rust, known as 15B, had been collected in the United States. It attacked varieties such as Renown, Regent and Thatcher but as yet, the race hadn't been collected in Canada. A test of 15B showed that it could attack the newer wheats severely, eventually destroying their resistance, he said.

Grave Problems In Dealing With Two Minorities

SHANGHAI.—Post-war life is posing grave problems of government allegiance for two foreign minorities in China—the Russians and their Polish cousins.

The Russians face a choice of future citizenship. Most of them have been stateless since they fled Russia in the years after the First Great War. Now they may accept U.S.S.R. passports, seek Chinese papers, or remain as they have been for many years, stateless.

The problems of Shanghai's Polish colony is less pressing. They are in the process of transferring allegiance from the old Polish government-in-exile in London to the present Warsaw government.

Several months ago Russian government representatives in China advised the Russian colony here that its members were eligible for citizenship.

The deadline for acceptance of applications recently was extended to July 3. Most Russians said this indicated the response to the original invitation had been disappointing.

More than 2,000 "White Russians" in Shanghai have obtained Chinese nationality, but the bulk of the colony remains without a country.

China's Polish residents have adopted an attitude of "waiting for developments." Most of them remained neutral in the political squabbles between London and Lublin. Most are anxious to give the new Poland a chance to demonstrate itself and its ability to care for its people abroad.

PLANS DESCRIBED

Hon. Bruce Claxton Announces Improved Health Service For Indians

OTTAWA.—Construction of a 50-bed extension to the Indian hospital at Fort Qu'Appelle was announced in the house by Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of health and welfare.

In addition to the hospital extension the nurses' residence which was destroyed by fire will be replaced, Mr. Brooke said as he outlined plans to bring improved health services to Indians in the far north and throughout western Canada.

Plans to improve health services for Indians were described by Mr. Claxton to include the following: Increase of the annual appropriation from $2,526,000 to $4,103,390.

Appointment of five regional health superintendents for Indians throughout the north, one to be located in Winnipeg. They will work closely with the Indian agents.

An air ambulance service to bring out seriously ill patients will be established by arrangement with the R.C.A.F., privately operated planes or department of transport planes.

The department will be responsible for transporting sick persons to hospitals.

U.S. PRICES SOAR

Increased Cost On Butter, Cheese And Evaporated Milk Announced

WASHINGTON.—Housewives in the United States were confronted with higher prices for butter, cheese and evaporated milk and prospects of slightly smaller supplies of meat, poultry, eggs, wheat products and dried fruits.

The higher prices were set by the office of price administration, following earlier increases on milk, bread and other food.

The shorter supplies of other items during the next 12 months were forecast in a report by Agriculture Secretary Anderson.

It said, however, that canned fruits and vegetables will be more plentiful than during the year ending June 30. Supplies of other foods will be about the same.

The price increases are 11 cents a pound for butter, six cents for cheddar cheese and one cent on a 14½-ounce can of evaporated milk.

Former Nazis Do Their Share In French Occupied Zone

BADEN, Germany.—French occupation authorities in Germany have adopted a policy of making former Nazis work, despite a de-Nazification policy as severe as that in force in any of the other three zones.

"If they were dyed-in-the-wool Nazis we employ them in jails, concentration camps or cemeteries. OTTAWA.—Prisoners of war in Canada June 1 numbered 10,404, compared with 33,833 at Jan. 1, it was reported in a return tabled in the commons. The labor department reported at June 1 there were 4,570 prisoners employed in timber operations and 3,807 in agriculture.

"I Had So Many Miseries"

by R. J. Deachman.

In France a pound of sugar is worth 175 francs, tea from 1,000 to 2,000 francs, butter 800 francs—the franc is worth slightly less than one cent in Canadian money.

A friend sat beside me at lunch today—I have known him for many years. He pulled a letter from his pocket and handed it to me. "Read it," he said, "but before you start let me give you the background of the story."

"It's from a young woman in France. Ah, no she is no longer young. It was in 1918 I knew her. It was during the war, the first Great War. I was stationed in the little town of Arc-en-Ciel in south-western France. They were the people, the citizens of France in those days and we were very happy. After I came home I exchanged a few post cards with some of them but you know how it is with these things—they do not pass out of mind—they are in the back of the mind, they come to the front again only when something stirs the embers of the past."

"A few days ago I received a letter it was from Andre, the young man I knew. She wanted to know if I was still alive. She was the gossip. She was not married. She had adopted a little girl of five whom she called 'Pepee'. I replied and asked, as delicately as I could, for Andre was a sensitive girl, if there was anything I could do for her."

I read the letter. It was in excellent English, with only here and there a word oddly used—for few write in another language, as in their own."

"Do you know what you can do for me, Enquire about the means to send you money through a bank perhaps and then I'll tell you what we need most. 'Pepee', this is my little girl's name, no her real name is Andre, though, if meanwhile you will send a parcel to 'Pepee', she will be very pleased."

"Could you easily find: 2 ordinary exercise books, 2 writing pencils (ordinary), 1 yard of elastic (white), 1 reel of white cotton, A few sewing needles, a tin of jam or marmalade, a few sweets, a soap."

And then she said, 'I want to know here that when 'Pepee' wants to see her doll, I often have to refuse her. You can have no idea what life is here, especially in this part of miseries everything has gone. So if France."

Then she thought of Pepee's family you have clothes that are no use to you, you could send them along. Oh,

"They were so poor, mother father four brothers, almost clothesless. My grandparents left many things but they won't be difficult to please, anything would do."

for others. Despite the fact that in all these years she had so many miseries—no one else is blamed.

"So far as our material conditions are concerned, we are worse than ever, but we need not complain, we deserved all that happened. I believe that, in politics, a nation can never avoid the consequences of its faults and ours were numerous."

Had these things happened in Canada we would have blamed the government, the business man, the banks. Never would we blame ourselves. So I hold, for France, an abiding hope. When people accept responsibility for their mistakes, they have a reserve of power a strength which will bring them triumph in the end.

My friend has sent the exercise books, the pencils, the yard of elastic (white), a soap and much more. How may little "Pepees" there are, in this devastated world, no one knows. They must be numbered in millions and tens of millions. So when a cry from out the darkness reaches your heart, respond to it as if there had been given to you the power to sense the sorrows of man kind. Then to the helpless of the world may come the first faint flickering ray of light and hope—may it come soon.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

PHYSICIAN— HEAL THYSELF!

By EMILY HERBERT

Copyright
Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

DOCTOR HARVEY GIBBS, the eminent psychiatrist, paced the carpeted floor of his study and smoked his fifth cigarette since dinner. The house was quiet—much too quiet. That's the way it had been ever since his wife left him.

Night after night, alone in the house—and silence. He had tried turning on the radio, but that was worse. For through the noise of the music or the speeches, he would imagine he heard things—a car stopping, the door-bell ringing, light laughter in the hall—Leone! And he would click off the radio suddenly and he would hear—nothing! Just blank stillness. So it was better not to play the radio. This way he could listen . . . and wait.

It seemed to Harvey Gibbs that he had been waiting half a lifetime; and yet it was only three months—the time he himself had set. And it had been worth it. He had gambled and won. Leone was coming home that night.

It had been a bitter blow when she told him that she was leaving him—going away with Geoffrey Lane. He believed that she loved him too. But she was young and gay, attractive to men. And Geoffrey was the romantic type, in contrast to his own middle-aged staidness.

In his practice, Doctor Gibbs encountered dozens of similar marital problems. He usually advised the husband to let his wife have her "fling". Perhaps a great romantic adventure was all she needed. Perhaps, like Leone, she had been cheated of this by an early and practical marriage.

So he had asked Leone to wait three months before asking for a divorce. If she changed her mind she had only to let him know. He would be waiting.

Harvey sat down at his desk and took out the letter he had received from her when only two of the three months had elapsed. Reading it was like turning a knife in a wound but some compulsion made him read it all through again. Already it had been read and handled so often that the creases were worn thin.

It was dated from Florida and told how she and Geoff had rented "the sweetest little cottage" on an isolated part of the beach. How they swam together, and boiled shrimps by a bonfire at midnight, and how she helped Geoff with his writing, and above all how gloriously happy they both were.

"Harvey dear," she had written in her impulsive script "you might just as well start those divorce proceedings, because it's all settled. Geoff and I are going to be happy together forever and ever."

But Harvey had stuck to his agreement and had gone on waiting. Then, only that day, with the time-limit almost expired, he had got her telegram. It lay beside her letter in the desk. He knew the words by heart.

"You were right. It didn't work. I left him a week ago." Just that, and a request that she might come to see him that evening. Probably she was on her way now. Harvey pressed his fingers against his temples. If only the throbbing in his head would stop; then he could think, could realize. He knew he should be wildly happy, but he was so tired, oh, so very tired.

It was as though the strained tenseness of these past months had become so habitual that he no longer knew how to relax. He rubbed his forehead again but still that tight band seemed to be pressing in on his temples. He tried to picture their meeting. Would she have changed, he wondered. He himself had aged years. Only the other day he had caught his old houseman looking at him with an expression of pity. Pity—for him! The impudence of the fellow! But Leone, he must think of Leone. She would be ashamed and repentant, he knew, and probably humble at first. It would be up to him to nurse her bruised ego, to justify her actions in her own eyes, to forgive her completely and ungrudgingly.

So absorbed was Harvey in his thoughts that the muffled ringing of the doorbell and the quiet footsteps of the servant who answered it failed to pierce the shell of his abstraction. He rose to pour himself a drink, then steadied himself, one hand gripping the edge of his desk.

Leone was standing in the doorway. After all his waiting and listening he had after all failed to hear her come home. More beautiful than ever, her cheeks still flushed from the southern sun, she advanced to greet him. Harvey waved her to a chair without speaking. Leone watched him with some concern, uncertain what to do or say. He had sunk back in his chair, staring at her as if he did not really see her. He was trembling.

"Forgive me, my dear," he finally managed to say. "The shock of seeing you suddenly like that—it rather bowled me over."

But still he felt dazed and confused. He heard Leone speaking, but her voice seemed to come from far away. There was a ringing in his ears. It was almost as though he were inside one of those big glass bells they used to have in the laboratory at college. Vacuum bells. He supposed she was asking for forgiveness, and he tried to answer reassuringly but could find no words.

He groped in the drawer of his desk, took out a large clean handkerchief and mopped his forehead. That felt better. His hand was cooler now and clearer. He could think. He put the handkerchief back in the drawer, and his fingers touched the cold metal of a loaded revolver that lay there.

Suddenly he knew exactly what he must do. And at that moment the band that had been tightening around his temples, seemed to break. What a relief! He felt calm and rested again. He stopped trembling.

Holding the handkerchief loosely in his hand, he rose and went to his wife. He put his arm about her shoulders.

"This is my answer," said Doctor Harvey Gibbs. And his finger pressed the hard metal under the folds of the clean white handkerchief.

Private Planes

Will Be So Commonplace That They Will Disturb The Peace

Former General Doolittle's prediction that 400,000 private planes will be flying in the United States within nine years, is no doubt a sign of great aviation progress. Yet the average citizen is bound to wonder how much peace and quiet can be expected when such a goal is reached. The night and day drone of planes is already causing annoyance to householders living in the neighbourhood of airports. What is it going to be like when flying has become commonplace? Let us hope plane manufacturers are working on silencing devices to tone down the racket.—Boston Post.

EROSION PROBLEMS

Building Along Coast Of Britain
Undermined By The Sea

Along the east coast and in Wales, the people talk of "vanishing Britain"—vanishing into the sea.

Erosion is a growing problem, accentuated by six years of war that saw sea-walls crumble from want of repair and deep gashes cut by the waves in areas where protection could not be provided for want of labor and materials.

Now so much work must be done that municipalities contend they cannot finance it. Meetings are being held to urge the national government to accept responsibility.

Pleasant coastal villages are waiting to be swallowed up, gradually, without hope. Substantial buildings, undermined by the sea, are doomed.

On the East Norfolk coast, facing the North Sea, the broken sections of a thick flint wall are half-buried in the sand below high-water mark. It is the top of a church's tower—last vestige of a sizeable village.

At Caister, north of Yarmouth, pillboxes built for defence during the war have been toppled over. In 1942 the sea advanced 100 yards in six months. It still is advancing 10 feet a year.

A massive concrete sea-wall at Lowestoft, built some years ago, fell recently to east coast storms and now is undermined and useless. At Mundesley, Norfolk, a new cliff fell tumbled hotel outbuildings to the sands; and at Overstrand, near Cromer, houses and a hotel soon will disappear.

In the west, erosion is most serious in Wales, with most damage at Rhyl, Colwyn Bay and between Llanelly and Kidwelly River. The south coast, too, is losing ground, at points between Bexhill and Eastbourne, Newhaven and Brighton and Shoreham and Chichester.

Adequate defence is estimated to cost £150,000 ($667,500) a mile on the worst stretches. Most small centres argue they cannot possibly provide the funds.

Hope For Large Pack

Canadians May Get Plenty Of Canned Salmon This Year

Canadians will be able to enjoy nearly as much canned salmon from the 1946 pack as they did from previous years, according to the grocery trade publication, Canadian Grocer. A report in a recent issue, says 500,000 cases of the 1946 pack have been allotted the domestic market. This represents an increase of 66 2/3 per cent. over the amount Canadians got from last year's pack, when only 300,000 cases were retained in this country for Canadian consumption. The year before it was 250,000 and in 1943, 200,000 cases.

Canadian Grocer points out that this is a "cycle" year for sockeye—the choicest variety of all. Packers are hoping for an unusually large pack this year, maybe 800,000 cases of this variety alone, while the total pack of all varieties may run to 1,900,000 cases.

If all goes well Canada will have a large export surplus for the hungry British market and for other sterling countries, as well as being able to satisfy the wants of the home market more completely than has been the case since early in the war.

Canning will commence sometime in June and 1946 salmon should make its first appearance on grocers' shelves sometime next December if not before.

Mouth Organs

Harmonicas Are Now Produced In Ontario Plants

Harmonicas labelled "made in Canada" soon may be on sale in all parts of the world, the Trade Department said.

Before the war, Canadian mouth organ fans were dependent on the Hohner plant at Trossingen, Germany, for their favorite musical instrument, but hostilities ended production. Three Ontario plants at Gananoque, Port Credit and Toronto, seized the opportunity to start a new post-war industry and began to manufacture harmonicas.

The production rate now is meeting domestic demand and soon there will be plenty for export, the department said. To facilitate overseas shipments, the Government has decided that export permits for most foreign countries will not be required.

Muskox Sequel

Meeting To Be Next Fall In The Alaska Area

In line with the continental defence policies under study by the permanent joint defence board, Canadian observers will be on hand when large-scale American sequels to the Canadian Muskox expedition are held next fall and winter in the Alaska area. Canadians will be present on both Operation Frigid and Operation Willwaw in Alaska and full reports on Operation Frost in Wisconsin will be given to the Canadian general staff.

PLENTY OF LAND

Available In Western Canada And Suitable For Homesteading

The land movement of 40 years ago, it is often said, can never be exactly duplicated, because farms are not to be obtained for the asking. It is true that most of the homestead land has been alienated and that a newcomer to the West who wishes to start farming on even terms with the men now established must buy his farm from a private owner. For the immigrants who are so inclined, however, there is still abundant opportunity for the pioneer. That is, there is still homestead land. None of it is near a railway or shipping facilities. But there are lands for a newcomer to the West available for homesteading that are up to the average in fertility and which may, within a few years, be well served by railway lines.—Guelph Mercury.

Few Failures

Canada Now Shows A High Solvency
In Business

An all-time peak for business solvency in Canada was established in 1945 with only 60 failures showing total liabilities of $1,960,000. These figures, from the records of Dun & Bradstreet, compare with a peak of 3,695 failures in 1922 showing aggregate liabilities of $78,069,000.

If the history of failures following the First Great War provides a forecast of events to come, Canada is heading into a rising tide of failures that will reach its ebb only after the current up-surge of business enthusiasm has been liquidated.

There has been a rush in recent months into all kinds of business enterprises, chiefly by returned men, powered by their war service savings and government loans. Many of these new ventures will, it is predicted, fall by the wayside but there is a feeling that the percentage of business wrecks will not approach the figures recorded in the post-war years of 1918-23.

Not only are statistics dealing with supplies and markets now more readily available but the disasters of 25 years ago left a legacy of experience that is likely to curb the gambling factor.

Failures came fast about three years after the end of the First Great War. The total for 1921 was 2,451 and 1922 brought the record peak or 3,695. Then followed a slow decline until the stock market crash in 1929 and the depression that resulted.

Great Step Forward

Man Invents A Machine To Regulate
Length Of Speeches

A Chicago inventor with an eye to giving aid and comfort to suffering humanity has come up with a machine that regulates the length of addresses by after-dinner speakers. This is a great step forward. It is to be fondly hoped that the gadget not only is foolproof, but that the inventor sets to work immediately on the mechanical additions or adjustments necessary to improve the quality of speeches. Most habitual listeners, however, would settle for an attachment to tune out at any time.—New York World Telegram.

A REAL RECORD

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. — Thirty-five men painted a new, five room cottage in three minutes 13.2 seconds and claimed a world's speed record. An estimated 2,000 spectators cheered the men, all from painters local 62 (A.F.L.), as they coated the house white. The dwelling will be occupied by Joseph Valentine, a war veteran.

Sports College

Membership Is Reported To Be
Nearing The 200,000 Mark

"Coach" Lloyd Percival, director of the CBC-YMCA "Sports College", and William R. Cook report that the membership in the College is now nearing the 200,000 mark. There's nothing like "Sports College" in any other place in the world, they say. In Newfoundland whole schools are joining up en masse. There are over 15,000 coaches and club managers in the College. Over a million pieces of literature have been distributed, and nearly a million letters have been received. Athletes like Les Patrick, Ray Apps, Jack Dempsey, Carl Bennett, Colman Clark, Stan Cutts, Dean Cromwell and others endorse the project.

SELF-RELIANCE

We have always thought that one reason farm boys and girls are more self-reliant than boys from the towns and cities is that they see on the farm that there are tasks which can only be accomplished by application and hard work. They have a training in work that stands them in good stead.

United Church Hold Sunday School Picnic

Owing to cloudy uncertain weather the annual Sunday School picnic of the combined Raymond and Magrath churches was not held at the picnic ground near Magrath as in former years.

Rather than disappoint the children it was decided for the Raymond congregation to motor to Magrath and meet with the Magrath congregation in the new church there.

Races and bull games were held outside while the younger children participated in games inside the church. Generous supplies of hot-dogs, coffee, cookies and ice cream were served as refreshments.

Despite a few showers during the afternoon an enjoyable time was had by all, especially the children.

Mrs. L.L. Palmer and Mrs. HF Allen entertained at the latter's home for Mrs. Rowena Lowe of Salt Lake.

Miss Olive Brandley left last week on a trip to Utah and California.
